general principles of law, and the interventions of the relevant EU Directives and CJEU decisions. The law regarding motor vehicle liability insurance is ever-evolving, fast-developing and offering more intellectual challenges as the disputes vary every day. This book examines the principles applicable in this area of law by studying the grounds where the rules derive from and their continuing developments over decades at both domestic and EU levels. Whilst doing so it also discusses whether the sources of the current applicable law, in several different motor vehicle compulsory insurance related issues, are in line with each other. The book also presents careful analyses of the interplay between the different sources of law, detailed discussions on what the law should be in order to provide consistency amongst the rules and principles identified, and how solutions to newly emerging issues can be found. The regime applicable in this area is overcomplex. This book will be valuable reading for any lawyer, whether academic, practitioner or student who would like to understand the insurance cover required for compulsory motor vehicle third party liability insurance together with the rationale for adopting such rules and their interpretation by the Courts.

against emergencies and disasters. If we have car insurance, and we get in an accident, our insurance company replaces our car, and whatever other damage has been done. They offer a vehicle until replacement is possible, so there is no down time. The recovery time is less, the pain is less, because they do most of the work for us. We have life insurance, so when a loved one dies, we can bounce back and recover as quick as possible. We can pay for the funeral, and life can resume as normal as possible under the circumstances. Emergency preparedness insurance, unfortunately, isn't something we can just purchase, then someone will write us a check, or feed us, or take care of our family during a crisis. No, it doesn't work that way. An Emergency Preparedness Insurance Policy, is something we have to create for ourselves. We have to plan and prepare for the possible emergencies we may face. We have to plan for food shortages. We have to plan for power outages. We have to plan for natural disasters. Only we can create our own policy to insure against an emergency situation. It is no less important, than all the other kinds of insurance, but there is just simply no way an insurance company could ever play this kind of game, since it could affect every person on the planet, and affect us all differently. This guide, will lead you every step of the way to get your insurance policy in place. Don't leave it to chance, or expect someone else to do it for you.
